

50 + Uses For The Dave Reed Jar Opener

- Used to help remove mouthpieces from trumpets & tubas.
- Put one on the console of your SUV and your cell phone won't slide forward when stopping normally.
- Put one under your desk fan and it will stop that annoying rattle from the base.
- Great for holding hot or cold drinks.
- Cut tiny slits in one, and put in your potted plants to help retain moisture and keep weeds out.
- Helps to open "child-proof" bottles.
- Place around a needle so it pulls through easier while sewing.
- Use to twist sprinkler devices, and separate the hoses.
- Wrap around a butcher knife handle to avoid slipping.
- Use for extra grip to help remove the oil filter in a car.
- When squeezing juice, place under juicer to keep from sliding.
- Place a jar opener between the rod and the tile to keep your shower curtain from falling.
- Use a jar opener and a sheet metal screw to plug a leak in a water line until a plumber can make a repair.
- Works great for shucking oysters!
- Place a clove of garlic in the jar opener. Roll on counter. The skin comes right off.
- Place a jar opener on a seat of a high chair to keep the baby from sliding down in the chair.
- Place a jar opener under a pet's food bowl. This prevents the bowl from "traveling" around the kitchen floor.
- A jar opener is good for removing stuck light bulbs.
- Use as a trivet at a picnic.
- Opens jars or bottles of course!
- Holds the telephone when hands are slippery.
- Holds a cake in place on a counter while frosting.
- Put small pieces under frame edges to protect walls.
- Place a jar opener under a laptop computer to prevent sliding.

- A jar opener makes a great glass and cup coaster for your desk.
- Jar openers make great liners for drawers and makeup baskets.
- Use to unscrew the bottom of the blender to wash it.
- Works great under a cutting board to keep it from slipping when slicing veggies.
- In a pinch, use as an emergency lint remover.
- Place in between iron skillet when storing so they don't rust.
- What's better for a mouse pad?
- Place jar opener under chair legs to keep chair from sliding.
- Place jar opener under table leg to help balance table.
- Keep in your car to help loosen up lug nuts on the tire wheel when you have to change a tire.
- Forget paper, use jar opener as a modern day business card.
- Works perfect for holidays when put under your turkey plate when you are carving to keep the platter from sliding around.
- Jar openers are the new hot soap dishes so your soap doesn't slide off the bathtub.
- It gives you a good grip on a screwdriver for removing screws.
- Place under a throw rug to keep it from sliding on tile.
- Use it to remove rubber sole shoe stains and marks from linoleum
- As an insole, it stops feet from sliding around in your shoe.
- It is especially useful for opening nail polish!
- When installing a new DVD player, use to twist off cable cords.
- Place under a plant pot to prevent discolored wood.
- Use to grip and carry heavy suitcases.
- Place under radar detector on your dashboard.
- Use to loosen a chuck key when inserting bits in a drill.
- Put under a standing picture frame to prevent sliding tables.
- Keep in a child's drawer to stop marbles from sliding around.

- When using an electric mixer, place under a sliding bowl.
- Hold a bottle with a jar opener to keep your hand warm and the bottle cold.
- Use under a plant so it won't fall off a stand when bumped.
- When transporting a hot bowl on a plate, put a jar opener on a plate and the bowl on the jar opener so it won't slide around.
- While outside, place over your cup of tea so bugs won't fly in.
- Works good as a spare drainer stopper in the tub.
- When transporting your bike on the back of the car, place a jar opener under the legs of the rack to prevent paint chipping.
- It's comfortable as an insole in shoes.
- Works as a safety measure under a ladder to prevent slipping.
- For those that put things on your speakers, helps to put under your objects to prevent them from falling off when vibrating.

Use as a reminder that Dave Reed Loves Saving People Money on Insurance